Xceligent is the data base used by local commercial property agents. We are the link between MLS agents and the Commercial agents. For reasons unknown there is a huge gap between them which we bridge through direct communication. Another way we help you excel is by connecting you to all agents selling commercial property in Cincinnati. No one else seems to do it – we do and you profit.

Property Management:

Property Management includes the collecting of rents, finding and screening tenants, building maintenance, accounting and records – all aspects of taking care of and actively utilizing real property.

Here is the best source of property management information followed by The Building Owners and Managers Association and then a comparison of property management software followed by the top local management options. The small family owned options to the large corporate managers. Depending on your property type and the size of your needs - one may be right for you.

Business Brokers:

Did you know that as a Realtor I am also licensed to sell your business? Why pay a business broker $10% or more when I will do a more effective job for much less? Through my networking with all of these Business Brokers you have the advantage of having all them focused on selling your business, instead of just one.

Types of income producing property in Cincinnati:

Single Family Homes

This is my preferred vehicle for income production. Fewer tenants, each paying more than apartment renters and assuming more utility costs and maintenance. I consider my rental homes cash machines.

Vacation Homes

A vacation home might be just an investment property as it may not produce income if you do not rent it out. Although vacation homes may be rented out and still occupied by the owner in between renters

Apartment buildings

1to 4 units have some different rules than those larger apartment buildings and apartment complexes

Storage units

Office buildings

Retail property

Industrial property

Commercial property

Restaurants - You can rent to a tenant who owns the business or you can own it and run it yourself

Day care

Pet boarding

Theater/music venue

Car wash

Mail boxes
